

FORTY-ONE OF DISTRICTS 2 AND 5 LEAVE FOR CAMP

Accommodations For Men on Train Best That Have Been Provided.

HUNDREDS CHEER THEM

Large Crowd in the Streets and at the Railroad Station as Soldiers, Escorted by Band and Firemen, Marched Colored Men to Saturday.

Another contingent of drafted men left this city yesterday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock for training at Camp Forrest, Lytle, Ga. The contingent was the first to go from this city to the Southern camp. Local Board No. 2 sent 22 men and Local Board No. 5 sent 19 men.

The men answered the last roll call at the armory after which they formed in line and marched to the Baltimore & Ohio station, escorted by the Connellsville Military band. A detail of firemen acted as color guard.

The draftees got away in fine shape, the railroad accommodations being the best yet. Train No. 15 which carried the men to Pittsburgh, had not arrived here yet when the men reached the station, but a special car, reserved for the use of the Connellsville boards was there and the men were marched into it on their arrival at the platform.

There was a crowd of several hundreds of persons at the station to see the new soldiers off. Other hundreds lined the streets while the men marched from the armory. Several selections were played by the band at the station.

The next contingent leaves here at 5:30 o'clock Saturday morning when the colored draftees go to Camp Center, Battle Creek, Mich. There will be quite a number of colored men leave.

The draftees who left yesterday were:

AUTOMOBILES AND GASOLINE WILL PAY MILLIONS IN TAXES

Tax On Cars Based on Original Cost; No Deduction for Age; Owner to Pay Whether Using or Not.

WASHINGTON, August 1.—A graduated tax on automobiles and a tax on gasoline is provided in a revenue measure approved by the Ways and Means Committee from which a revenue of $165,000,000 or more is expected.

The schedule of taxes will require payment of a fee of $10 for automobiles costing $500 or less, with $5.00 additional for each $250 of cost up to $1,000. From that figure upward the price increases at the rate of $20 on every additional $500 of the car's cost. No deduction will be made for the age of the car. The tax will be paid by the owner whether the car is in use or not.

This tax is in addition to the 10 per cent on the manufacturers' sales. Motor trucks will pay according to the automobile schedule. A flat tax of $5 per year is imposed on motorcycles. Another tax will probably be devised to cover dealers handling used cars. The gasoline tax of two cents per gallon will be paid by the producer. This tax is estimated to yield between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000 per year. The automobile tax is expected to produce not less than $125,000,000.

UNIT I SOLDIER DIES

Robert C. Dornon Received Fatal Wound in Battle of July 15.

Robert C. Dornon of New Alexandria, who was dangerously wounded on the battle line in France on July 15, died of his wounds, a telegram being received yesterday morning by members of his family announcing the fact. He died on Tuesday morning, July 23.

Dornon was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Dornon of New Alexandria, and a brother of John M. Dornon of East Green street, Connellsville. At the time he was wounded he was serving with Base Hospital Unit 1, and was in service at a dressing station on the battle line. He was graduated from the Greensburg high school and was a sophomore at Westminster college when he enlisted. The father of the young soldier is dangerously ill in a Pittsburgh hospital. A number of soldiers from Fayette and Westmoreland counties, including W. P. Sherman, former city editor of The Courier, are members of Unit 1, which was formed in Pittsburgh.

Dr. Hallett Gets Orders.
Dr. J. H. Hallett of Vanderhill, a member of Local Board for District No. 5, who was recently commissioned a captain in the Medical Reserve Corps has received orders to report at Camp Greenleaf, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., by August 12. The physician will leave here on August 11 for the camp.

AGAIN IN PROFESSION

Many Married Women Elected to Schools in Fayette County.

With the opening of schools yet a month away, Superintendent Carroll announced yesterday that he had almost a full corps of teachers. With the exception of a few principals and high school teachers, there are no Fayette county teachers, these are all Fayette county men. That there is no great scarcity of teachers is probably due to the fact that so many married women who were formerly teachers have taken up the work again. The last teachers' examinations of the year will be given August 7 at the high school building, Uniontown.

In many districts school boards, realizing that the best teachers have been leaving the profession because of the low salaries, have advanced the wages, in some places as much as $20 per month. In most of the districts of the county the schools will be opened on the second or ninth of September.

ROAD TO BE BRICKED

Two Miles at Dunbar to Connect Connellsville-Caledonia Highway.

Two miles of brick road at Dunbar to connect with the Connellsville and Uniontown roads by the way of the Cross Keys school house, will be constructed by the Dunbar township, the county and the state.

Civil engineers commenced yesterday on the survey and the work will be completed as quickly as possible.

The real estate firm of A. E. Wagner & Company has disposed of the Walter Brooks property in Wood-ward avenue, West Side, to John B. Steadman for $2,700. The house is a double one and the purchaser occupies one side.

COMING OF THE AMERICANS NO TERROR TO KAISER BILL HE INFORMS ARMY AND NAVY

Transports are Being Attacked by Submarines Which are Certain of Success, He Attempts to Make Tools in Service Believe; Boasts of Peace in East and Drives in West.

FRANCO-AMERICANS ENGAGED IN STRAIGHTENING MARNE FRONT LINES

By Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 1.—The coming of American armies to France and numerical superiority on the part of the Allies do not frighten Germany, declares Emperor William in a proclamation to the German army and navy.

"Vital forces which are streaming across the sea to the enemy," he said, "are being attacked by German submarines which are certain of success." The emperor in his proclamation, which is dated August 1, alluded to the successes which the German forces have won, the bringing of peace to the eastern front and the heavy blows dealt the Allies during the present summer. He assured the army and navy that although they were in the midst of the hardest struggle of the war they will be victorious.

ALLIES CONTINUE PROGRESS.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, Aug. 1.—S. A. M.—The Franco-American troops on the main battle front continued yesterday the process of straightening out the line. They scored advances in this effort, the Americans pushing beyond Serpy to within two kilometers of Chamey.

The Allied forces effected their progress against a stubborn German resistance. Chamey, the town Americans now are approaching, marked the spot where Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt fell to his death recently with his aeroplane.

FRENCH REPULSE ATTACK.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The Germans this morning attacked the French positions in the region of Bligny, southwest of Rheims. The attack was repulsed, says the official statement today from the war office.

CLEARING WIRE ENTANGLEMENTS.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, Wednesday, July 31.—American and French troops launched an attack Wednesday afternoon from Seringes-Clerzes on the center of the Marne front for the purpose of straightening the line and demolishing barbed wire entanglements which the Germans have placed through the hill forests and open places.

WOULD ELIMINATE WEEK-DAY CATHOLIC CHURCH SERVICES

County Fuel Administration Makes the Request as War Measure.

TO BOOST PRODUCTION

Extensive Lay-Offs of Coal and Coke Workers for Religious Purposes Has Depressing Effect on Output; Letters Sent to the Priests.

Elimination of the week-day religious meetings as a means toward greater production of coal and coke has been taken up with the priests by the county division of the Fuel Administration. The exigencies of war demand the maximum effort on the part of the workers, it is held.

Letters have been directed to all priests in the region and to higher authorities of the Catholic church asking that wherever possible, religious meetings which would keep men from the "coke trenches" during a week day be eliminated and that the priests themselves, lend cooperation in the movement to keep the regions running at maximum efficiency by impressing upon the workers their responsibility in keeping production of coal and coke at the peak of maximum efficiency.

Fuel administration officials point out that while the request to the priests is unprecedented, they believe that its spirit would be accepted by priests and men alike and a closer attention to the day's work by the vially essential coal and coke workers would be the net result. Non-interference with anything pertaining to religion is one of the fundamental institutions of the United States; it was declared, but it has been found that excessive "lay-offs" because of religious observances on week days have added greatly to the fall in output which the Fuel Administration is doing its utmost to stimulate.

Frequent lay-offs for any reason whatever is not conducive to the best interests of the United States government at this time, the statement from the Fuel Administration declared, and the request to the priests of the region was only one of several methods applied to secure six days work per week from every worker in the regions. The exigencies of war demand that every man do his best, the statement continued, and for that reason the coke worker is asked to make Sunday his day of worship, and give the remaining six days to America at the mines.

Reports have shown that men have given that excuse for a day's absence when investigation has shown that they were not in attendance at church. Arrangements have been whereby the Fuel Administration will be provided with the facts in such cases.

Taken to Hospital.
Mrs. Sarah Percy of North Pittsburgh street, was admitted to the Homeopathic hospital, Pittsburgh, Monday to undergo an operation for appendicitis. Mrs. Percy is the first member of the Women's Benefit Association of the Marneches of this city to receive free hospital service by the association.

The Allies brought into action their heavy artillery, their aviators, and patrols having reported little after mile of barbed wire standing along the German lines. The heavy guns soon found the range of the entanglements. Some enemy infantry had dashed in behind the wires but the lines were for the most part manned by machine gunners.

The German artillery reply consisted chiefly of shells from the 77s and 105s. The machine guns with the heavier pieces indicated were active in an effort to prevent an Allied advance.

The purpose of the American and French attack, which is in a northeasterly direction, probably is outflanking the Meunier woods and in cutting off the blunt edged salient in the line between Romigny and Clerges. This salient was made more acute by the American advance, north from Serpy to Seringes.

GERMANS PLAN WITHDRAWAL TO VESLE, DESERTER SAYS. WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, Aug. 1. (N. O. A.)—The Germans are planning to withdraw to Vesle, a deserter says.

A deserter who came into the lines last night declared that orders had been issued for a series of retrograde movements. (Continued on Page Two.)

THE COURIER WILL DISCONTINUE FREE COPIES AND RETURNS

In compliance with a ruling of the Pulp and Paper Section of the War Industries Board, The Courier will discontinue all free copies of this paper and the return from agents of unsold copies. The chief rulings of the board in this regard are:

1.—Discontinue the acceptance of the return of unsold copies.
2.—Discontinue giving copies to anybody except for office-working copies or where required by statute law in the case of official advertising.
3.—Discontinue giving free copies to advertisers, except not more than one copy for checking purposes.

The above ruling are made because of the serious shortage of paper.

TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COS. MAY BE MERGED

Federal Authorities at Washington at Work on the Plan.

DETAILS UNKNOWN HERE

Division Superintendent Smith Quits Tri-State to Follow Other Work; Otherwise All Companies Here Continue to Operate as They Did Before.

While for the present under the passing of the telephone and telegraph lines to the control of the federal government, effective today, there will be no change in the operation of any of the local companies. It is said that it will not be long before competition will be eliminated by combining the Bell and Tri-State telephone systems and the Western Union and Postal Telegraph systems.

There were no changes here as the outcome of government control. W. R. Smith, division manager for the Tri-State, has resigned to take a position with the Monongahela Railroad company after four years here. His successor has not been named. General Superintendent A. M. Crichton of Uniontown is looking after the local plant.

It is reported that the Postal Telegraph office will shortly be discontinued. It is believed also that the Tri-State Telephone plant will soon be merged with the Bell system, though officials know nothing of the plan.

The following was communicated to the employees of the Bell Telephone company here by President Theodore N. Vail:

"Under the authority of the law and by the proclamation of the President, possession and control of the wire business passed to the postmaster general as of August 1st.

"In a conference held in Washington, at which were present the Postmaster General, the government Operating Committee and representatives of the Bell companies, the postmaster general expressed most emphatically his appreciation of the service which the Bell companies were rendering, and that such improvement possible would be made because of the additional power derived from the government. He asks for the cooperation and assistance of those who have heretofore been responsible for the service.

"The postmaster general was equally emphatic in the statement of his desire to conserve the service and properties of the company with a view of returning them when called upon so to do to the owners in as good condition as received—that it was his earnest desire that the owners should receive just compensation in the full sense for their use.

"The postmaster general, until other instructions are issued, desires that the conduct of operation shall continue as heretofore, and also states that no change will be made until after consultation and full and careful consideration.

"To you who are identified with the Bell companies—who have shown your fine sense of obligation and your loyalty and fidelity to the country through the public service and to the property in the past and to whom the credit is due for the prestige and position of the companies in the public eye—it is asked and it is not too much to ask of you for the same loyalty, fidelity and devotion to service under the new order of things. On your behalf such loyalty, fidelity and devotion to service have been common, knowing full well the spirit in which you will meet and respond to the request.

"To do one's full duty in each position is the greatest obligation resting upon every person and is also the greatest opening—to future preference."

BARGAIN DAY CAUSE OF GREAT RUSH OF BUSINESS IN CITY

Stores Literally Jammed During the Forenoon, With No Perceptible Decrease This Afternoon.

Bargain day was ushered in this morning with a grand rush and all morning and the early part of the afternoon the stores were crowded to their utmost capacity. The weather could not have been more ideal for shopping and before 8 o'clock, the hour for opening, crowds commenced to gather at the entrance of the stores. When the doors were thrown open the crowd lost no time in seeking the bargain counters. Every incoming street car and many automobiles brought out of town shoppers, who were also attracted by the wonderful bargains offered by the merchants. There were extra clerks in addition to the regular ones, and despite the enormous crowd, the customers were given excellent service.

Every section of the stores held wonderful bargains and the large amount of merchandise disposed of showed that the purchasers realized the good values they were receiving. Up-to-date styles and the very best quality featured the merchandise on sale. The merchants were well pleased with the manner in which the opening of bargain days started off and judging from all appearances the sales today and tomorrow will be unusually large.

GOOD RACING PROGRAM

Some Extra Attractions Coming to Dawson in September

In addition to the regular followers of half-mile circuit that will invade Fayette county in September at Dawson will be ten of the best matinee performers of the Schenley Matinee club of Pittsburgh to compete in the events at their annual Dawson fair. Among the record performers will be Fred Patchen, 2:09 1-4; May Stevens, a 2:10 pacer; The Banker, a 2:12 pacer, and Margaret, a green pacer that has shown miles around 2:15. Among the trotters will be Don Aristocrat, 2:11 1-4; Sadie Penn, 2:08 3-4; Marchmont, 2:17; Ruby Watts, 2:09 3-4; Jim Mack, 2:13; Black Pepper, 2:24 1-2, but has been trotting miles right around 2:15 since early in June.

In order to encourage breeding, Secretary Harry Cochran has instituted a three-year-old colt stake to be raced off the season 1919 over the Dawson track at his early meeting to be given. This event will be for $1500 and will bring together a number of good trotting colts that are bred and owned by horsemen of this section of the state. The War Board has given encouragement to the breeding of the standard-bred trotter and pacer and it is from this stock that the supply of army remounts must come from the future.

CONVENTION OFF

Firemen Drop Plans for Annual Gathering at Meyersdale.

The Western Pennsylvania Firemen's convention is called off. The annual gathering which was to have been held at Meyersdale during the week of August 12-18 has been cancelled as a war measure to keep up the production of coal. The firemen are dropping the convention on the request of the United States Fuel Administration.

In a letter received this morning by W. E. DeBolt, of this city, president of the firemen's association, from the Fuel Administration, it is stated that the government regrets having to ask the firemen to cancel their convention but that no chances whatever will be taken of having the production of coal decreased in the least.

Six Die in Fire.

EFFORT TO BE MADE TO BRING MINERS BACK TO THE MINES

Who Went to Other Industries Before Mining Became So Active.

WILL NOT BE COMPULSORY

Appeals Will Be Made to the Patriotism of the Men; Campaign of Education to Be Conducted by the Federal Employment Service Begins.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Efforts to persuade the men who have left employment in the coal mines in the last two or three years to engage in work in munition plants, steel-mills and similar industries as a means of increasing the labor supply at the mines will be taken by the War Labor Administration and the Federal Employment Service as a part of the program of the priority distribution of workers in effect today.

Compulsory measures will not be resorted to in any instance. Each and every worker will be free to seek work wherever it suits him best, but persuasive efforts will be exerted to induce him to devote his services to industries which are essential to winning the war.

Appeals to the patriotism of the men will be made, largely through a group of speakers on patriotism who will visit the factories, mills, shops and mines to explain the purpose of the war, the aim of the nation in fighting, and urge the maximum effort on the part of workers everywhere as a factor in winning the war.

A definite list of essential industries to which laborers will be allotted will not be put into effect at this time. Local conditions will govern the priority of industries in this respect in large measure. If a railroad is in greater need of workers than a ship building yard, an effort will be made to supply the railroad first.

Coal mines will be treated as a separate detail of the work, and as a preliminary move, a labor bureau of the Fuel Administration in Washington will act in conjunction with the other labor agencies of the government in handling the mine labor situation, especially in the work of "hand picking" of former miners and inducing them to return to the coal mines for the rest of the war.

In every instance, it is stated, where it is learned that a worker was formerly engaged in coal mining, strong efforts will be exerted to induce him to return as a patriotic move on his part. This method of recruiting the ranks of the mine workers will be employed in preference to trying to allot men to this work who are inexperienced in its details.

The statement is made that it is inadvisable to attempt to inaugurate any plan or follow any program which favors of drafting men to work in a particular industry. Persuasion will be the instrument of operation at all times. While it was found necessary to draft men into the military service, the national administration does not believe that this method would be successful in industrial matters, and would have any result other than to stir up discord, dissatisfaction, and possibly defeat the hope of maximum exertion through patriotic prompting.

A favorable factor toward persuading former miners to return to the coal mines is believed to be in the fact that the coal supply recently has shown an improvement, and that these men will no longer be faced with the endless stream of idle days from idleness, which caused many of them to seek employment elsewhere. The patriotic speakers working under the direction of the war labor agencies of the government will focus their attention at the coal mines, as well as elsewhere, toward arousing workers to put an end to idleness, and the observation of holidays not recognized in this country.

Honest Advertising

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues of a laxative that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher honestly advertised. Honestly placed before the public, and from which he honestly expects to receive his reward.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Dr. H. H. Fletcher

A GRATIFYING IMPROVEMENT IN PRODUCTION OF COAL AND COKE

Proper Shows a Slight, The Latter a Very Considerable Gain.

WAS AVOIDED AVOID, SLUMP

Perhaps do this better by giving Production a Grand Boost; Labor Production Plan Taking Form; Percentage of Production in Progress.

From The Weekly Courier.

The slight gain in the coke output of last week, taken in conjunction with the very considerable gain in coal production, constituted a very gratifying improvement. During the preceding week there had been a falling off of 1,320 tons in coke and 7,500 tons in coal, resulting in a distinct disappointment to those who had been looking for a more holding to the record averages. The fact that the coke output of last week had been over 100,000 tons, and that during the hottest week of the year to date, encourages the belief that the usual midsummer slump will not only be avoided altogether, but that very shortly there will be an upward trend in the production figures.

With the estimated coke output reaching 101,225 tons, the increase over the previous week was 970 tons. Coal output reached to 171,500 tons, a gain of 16,200 tons. Reduced to its coal equivalent the coke made during the week represents 133,900 tons. Adding the new coal shipments the aggregate tonnage is shown to have been 795,500 tons. Compared with the aggregate of 687,900 tons, at the preceding week, the increase was 13,600 tons, which becomes all the more significant when compared with the aggregate tonnage loss of 16,000 during the week ending July 20.

Generally speaking the representatives of the Fuel Administration, upon whom rests the responsibility of increasing the fuel output of the region, feel very much encouraged at the prospects. A vast amount of time and energy are being expended on the problems in hand and every effort is being made to achieve the results which the urgency of the situation demands. A fine spirit of cooperation is being manifested by both the operators and their employees which promises results of a satisfactory character.

The labor supervisors plan is slowly taking form. Operators are sending in the reports of life men and progress in being made in perfecting an organization to handle and tabulate the reports. An unclouded report states that a production manager is to be appointed to give particular attention to all matters relating to a more efficient approach to a maximum output.

With the exception of Friday and Saturday, when the Pennsylvania railroad suffered a shortage of cars, due to lack of motive power and delay in receiving supplies from unloading points, the car supply has been fairly up to requirements. During the day, thousands of tons of coke were moved but at the expense of coal movement. There was a slight shortage in coal car supply during the early days of the present week, but sufficient cars have been available to load out all coke. Last Saturday having been pay day Monday developed some yard to yard shortages, helped by the excessive temperatures, which cut down production for the day. Mine labor was less affected from either of these causes.

The estimated production for the week ending Saturday, July 27, was 801,225 tons, divided between the two districts as follows: Connellsville, 164,000 tons, a gain of 530 tons; Lower Cambria, 167,745 tons, a gain of 45 tons; total gain, 975 tons. This gain was accomplished among the operators as follows: Furnace crews, 635 tons; merchant crews, 340 tons.

SUPPLY OF STEEL FOR LESS ESSENTIAL USES TO BE FURTHER REDUCED

Steel Administration Hopes to Reduce Over Ship Situation
But Mills Are Tied to Limit.

Demands of government and private war industries for steel have reached such huge proportions, with repeated expansion of the nation's military program, that the allotments to "less essential" manufacturers must be continually reduced, says J. L. Rappaport, federal steel administrator.

Mr. Rappaport declared there was no sense in alarm over the steel situation as it affects shipbuilding, munitions making and other activities vital to the war.

The greatest difficulty the government faces is not a shortage of steel, in general, but inability of mills, owing to limited equipment, to turn out the varieties of the product in greatest demand in sufficient quantity. This condition is being met as rapidly as possible, he asserted, by turning out the required machinery.

Development of the shipbuilding industry far beyond the most sanguine estimates of a year ago, has created a demand for plate steel which has exceeded the capacity of all the plants equipped for this type of work. Steel for munitions and for other war supplies also has been required by the government in greater quantities than the manufacturers have been able to meet. Obviously steel has been available for industrial use, not essential to the prosecution of the war, but the allowance to these concerns will grow less and less as equipment is installed in the "more essential" industries.

MAKING HOME A LITTLE NEARER

MRS. W.K. VANDENBERG

Home on furlough is the grandest tonic to the morale of the French and British forces. But the American boy cannot go home and the American Red Cross soldier by America's women is doing everything it can to carry the home spirit over there. Prominent among the workers is Mrs. W. K. Vandenberg, now active in Red Cross Canteen work in France, one of the effective ways of reaching the men.

The canteens on the lines of communication were established for the purpose of providing the sleeping quarters, food, baths and disinfecting services for the soldiers on route to and from the front. They are also equipped with rest rooms where soldiers can read, write and play games, and small stores where they can buy canned vegetables, tobacco and similar articles.

These canteens are built as junction depots which, in peace time, were equipped to handle about 75 people. Before the establishment of the canteens, sometimes as many as 4,000 soldiers would be forced to wait from 24 to 48 hours for their connecting trains, during which time they slept on the ground, got very little food, and that at high prices. New trench-stained soldiers can obtain hot meals at less than one-third a meal's cost, have play games of sleep until time for their connecting trains.

ANTHRACITE OUTPUT IS BEING BOOSTED BY KNOCKING OUT BOOZE

Mine Workers Put Ban on Persons Engaged in Liquor Business Among Members of Union.

The Anthracite Bureau of Information has issued the following statement:

"Booze is getting a knock-out blow in the mining regions, for the men themselves realize that they can do better work without it and have a better opportunity to enjoy the environments of their home life. District No. 9 of the United Mine Workers of America has started a movement to divorce any possible, conversing effects of booze from the mines by decreeing that no man can work in the collieries who is addicted in any way with a liquor establishment. The by-laws of the organization state that persons engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquor will not be eligible to membership.

"The miners' organization further declares that if a miner works all day, he is not in shape to come out the next morning and handle dangerous work after spending a part of the night in a saloon. The womenfolk of the mine workers are enthusiastically backing up the movement, for they, from patriotic and personal motives, realize that sobriety aids in a greater output of anthracite with an accordingly greater amount of pay in the pay envelopes.

"The anthracite industry heartily supports every move to eliminate the drinking habit, just as it is against any factor that retards the output of coal, for it realizes the debt it owes the nation at war, its essential war industries and the network of avenues through which it must ship fuel to meet the needs of the people for next winter.

"It accordingly urges cooperation on everybody's part to aid the industry in every way possible to meet the crying demand for more coal. Any plan that can aid anthracite output is a welcome one. It is figured that booze has cost production thousands of tons per week through lowering the working time and capacity of those addicted to its use."

MANY IMPROVEMENTS. Being Made at Youngstown by Republic Iron & Steel Company.

Among the improvements at the Youngstown plant of the Republic Iron & Steel company is a roll turning shop for the open hearth finishing mills. Orders for the machinery have been placed and work on the building is under way.

The two new 30-ton open hearth furnaces will increase the open hearth capacity by about 8,000 tons per month, or nearly 100,000 tons per year.

The contract for the construction has been awarded to the H. Koppers company.

Price of Coke in Kentucky. The Fuel Administration has fixed $7.75 per net ton as the price of furnace coke made in beehive ovens of the Marrowbone Mining company, at Lookout, Pike county, Ky.

Fifteen New August Records

Dear Music Lover:

It is the easiest thing in the world for the Victrola owner to keep in closest touch with all that's new and clever in music. Take for example the new August records:

"Indianola," a striking headliner, throbs with the deep-voiced tom-toms and drones with the war-song cadences of the dancing red skins.

As Billy Murray sings, we see the vivid war-painted figures away about the leaping flames and hear the promise of the departing brave to "fight for the Yank" and to "tomahawk Ol' Kaiser Bill." A rattling good reverse, "When I Send You a Picture of Berlin."—No. 18474—85c.

Smith's Orchestra is back again with another dance hit—two popular, sprightly fox trots that would make a cigar Indian cut capers.—No. 18473—85c.

A second Billy Murray hit is a lively hit about an Irish woman's man, "They're All Out of Step Ent Jim." Sailor Reilly furnishes the reverse.—No. 18465—85c.

Let us play for you some of these excellent "out-of-door" records—at any time.

Yours very truly,

COMING BACK.

The gray haired men are coming back, for duty they're enrolled, the men who one time got the sack because they were too old. The younger men have gone to fight and shake the tyrant throne, and there is need for every right who has ten finger bones. And now the gent with wintry locks may vindicate his claim, that Oiler's much exploited talks were but a sin and shame. "Young blood" for years has been the cry, in every busy mart; the gray haired man might go and die, or wilt and break his heart. The gray haired man has made his mark, for justice he has called; they should not off from every door because his head was bald. And now he has the wish for chance to show he's good as what now he may conquer circumstance and get there with both feet. Old prejudice, hell-trampl'd flat, and show he's good as new, and he will prove that Oiler's talk was used for nothing through. The old boy leaves his easy chair, his slippers, and his books; his coat-tails flapping in the air, he's doing things, goodness!

THE LITTLE ARMY.

With drum and sword they march along the soldiers brave of five and six the street good childhood's throng to capture every foot with sticks.

And I that have grown old and gray, sit watching them and wonder when the children of a by-gone day will find the road to home again.

Here's childhood's army passing by and boyhood's flashing sword of fire.

With love alight in every eye and dimpled cheek and dimpled chin, and joy will follow where they go and victory crown their little stick.

I smile because right well I know that soon they'll all come marching back.

And yet it seems but yesterday another army marched along. As young and proud and brave as they and sang the self-same battle song.

But they were called for soldiers real, and they were but youngsters then.

Are marching now with swords of steel and facing cannon fire as men.

With drum and sword they're passing by, the little warriors and bold, and as a tear shall dim my eyes as I see them march to the war.

It is because I've learned to know how bravely youth must face away.

And just how soon life's pleasures go, when duty takes the place of play.

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT

TINSEL.—A five part World feature, the film being made from a story by Fred Jackson, the famous popular writer of many well known stories, is being shown today. "Tinsel" is the story of a mother and daughter, the mother a brilliant brainy woman who knows the world and the men who inhabit it. The daughter on the other hand is a shy, unsophisticated girl, who knows little about the world and its wickedness. The daughter is introduced to the world by her mother and she learns many things. She meets all the various types of men and has many experiences. But though she feels she is practically going it alone her mother is really watching over her all the time and at the crucial moment her mother comes to her rescue when help is most sorely needed. Muriel Ostiche is seen as the daughter and Frank Mayo is also seen in an important role. "Tinsel" is an up-to-the-minute unusual story. It is interesting from the start to the finish. As interpreted by Miss Gordon and the task appearing with her it takes rank as one of the best productions of the season. It is a story of true love and of the modern world of wealth and fashion. A two act comedy is included on the program. Tomorrow William Farnum will be seen on "True Blue," a five part Fox Standard feature. Monday and Tuesday "To Hell with the Kaiser" will be shown.

ORPHEUM THEATRE

Billy Burke's next appearance at the Orpheum Theatre will be in the Paramount picture "Eve's Daughter" from the play by Alice Ramsey, which was originally produced starring Grace George. It depicts a girl, Irene Simpson-Bates, who chafes at the gallant restraint placed on her by her wealthy father, from whom she inherits a strong will, and who, at his death, takes all the small fortune he left her and squanders it in one good thing. How she is very nearly lured to the employment and saved by her father's lawyer who has always loved her, makes a thrilling story. Miss Burke wears some gorgeous frocks and has added many new and charming touches to her work, always so full of "Burkeisms," such as the quickly lifted chin and birdlike toes of the head which has endeared her to thousands. The supporting cast, including Thomas Meighan, William Riley Hatch, Florence Ryan and others is worthy of being called "all-star," and does some excellent work in support of Miss Burke.

EVERY MEAL A POISONOUS INJECTION

Few folks suffering from kidney and bladder troubles ever think that the meal which they are taking are hastening their death. Every morsel of food taken gives up its quantity of uric acid. This poison is taken into the system through a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder. In the healthy man nature provides an outlet for this poison. Those who are afflicted must take a medicinal help to drive the death-dealing poison from the system. For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL HAMLEN OIL CAPSULES have been doing this work. They often prove a relief in all diseases arising from kidney and bladder troubles. Don't put off this vital matter of attending to your health until it is too late to make your funeral arrangements. Get a box of GOLD MEDAL HAMLEN OIL CAPSULES today. Look for the genuine: Gold Medals on them. They are guaranteed to money refunded. Insist on GOLD MEDAL Brand.—Ad.

Emphatically Asserts Worn Out, Lagging Men Can Quickly Become Vigorous and Full of Ambition

7 A DAY FOR 7 DAYS

Don't blame the man who is perpetually tired; his blood needs more red corpuscles, and his brain and nerves are craving for food.

Given the right kind of medicine, say tired-out, inactive, lagging fellows can quickly be made into a real live, energetic and even ambitious man.

So says a student of the nervous system who advises all men and women who feel worn out and who are not getting any work out of life to take a regular job to get a package of Bio-form at any drugist.

This is the new discovery that pharmacists are recommending because it is not expensive and speedily puts vigor and ambition into people who are tired and lagging. There is no secret about the formula of Bio-form; it is printed on every package. Here it is: Leucine, Calcium Glycophosphate, Iron, Potassium, Magnesium, Potassium, Ext. Nux Vomica, Glycerin, Gentian, Phosphoric Acid, Oleanthin, Capsicum, Etc.

People whose nerves have been wrecked by too rapid living, too much tobacco or alcohol, have regained their old-time confidence and energy in less than two weeks.

No matter from what cause your nerves went back on you, no matter how run down, nervous or tired out you are, get an original package of Bio-form at once. Take two tablets after each meal and one before bedtime—seven a day for seven days—then eat after each meal till all are gone.

Then if you still lack ambition; if your nerves are not steady and you haven't the energy that red-blooded, keen-minded men possess, your purchase money will be gladly returned.

Show the Idea is Worked Out Through General and Executive Committees With the Help of Publicity—Determining the Amount.

By C. E. DITTNER.

The real purpose of any community war service program is to make the people of each locality a thoroughly patriotic set of citizens. It must not be said of America that it sacrifices its soldiers and sailors in the name of peace.

First, the basis for the War Chest plan can be set down in this form: Our campaign for all war needs should be in the community spirit; (1) Reduce waste of time and effort to a minimum; (2) Induce all to give to a maximum; (3) conserve the financial resources of the community; (4) eliminate the relatively unimportant and increase the support of the important causes; (5) raise the patriotic spirit of the community to a higher level; (6) effect a new community spirit.

The first task confronting the community that desires to raise one fund for war needs is that of mobilization of money. The very excellent application of the modern budget system to the hitherto haphazard plan of raising special funds for special war needs, should provide the solution.

At the outset the people of any locality may argue that the government should have provided for the relief and support of the fighting forces and their dependents through its own administrative action, and for the cost thereof by taxation, rather than by the activities of voluntary organizations backed up by voluntary contributions of money. Experience has already demonstrated, however, that the satisfaction of citizens generally, that the policy the government saw fit to adopt in this debt was profoundly wise.

While, it would appear, no one can deny the justice of distributing the burden of money support of these activities on as exact a basis as possible, the American action would have made but a sorry progress in the necessary non-support of the fighting forces had these details not been left to the voluntary efforts of the people for the great money-raising campaigns of our American communities have educated the people to the seriousness of "our" war as nothing else could possibly have done.

These campaigns have served with a what was of delay to overcome the indifference and selfishness of the people "back home." They have stirred the American heart to a personal interest and sympathy, to a spirit of sacrifice and to a general willingness to do any thing necessary to win the war, which today is the greatest war asset America possesses, next to man power of its army and navy.

The problem of organizing communities so as to secure a maximum support of the war is the greatest present need. In many communities there is the conviction that the War Chest plan is the solution of this problem.

To meet the situation, there has been organized in many communities a great volunteer organization including among its supporters and subscribers almost every adult in the confines of its territory. The plan may be adopted only for a city, or it may be extended to a county.

Where successfully prosecuted, a Community War Chest has had the patriotic support of a committee of local business men and women, representing every activity of the locality. These committees may be named, in some instances, by the mayor, the local chamber of commerce, or may result from the natural development of the demand for some such relief.

How the Work is Done.

From this general committee, naturally bulky and unwieldy—there has been selected a general executive committee, of few members, "thoroughly representative, competent and patriotic, in whom the community will have complete confidence." This committee is authorized not only to raise sufficient funds to meet all war needs but to investigate all future war needs and to appropriate such amounts out of the War Chest fund as it may deem necessary. In other words, to this executive committee is delegated the task of "filling" the War Chest and of directly supervising the disbursements therefrom.

Having secured the support of all interests in each community, with the plan thoroughly prepared, perfection of details should ensue. At the same time, the publicity program should be launched.

After selection of the executive committee, to the members should be assigned these duties:

First, to ascertain the probable demands that will be made upon the community in the form of subscriptions to general or special funds for war needs during the next 12 months. Second, having decided upon the appropriate sum that will cover these demands, to build up an organization that will raise the entire amount. One, and only one, general campaign, and to plan that campaign in such a manner as to afford every man, woman and child in the community an opportunity to subscribe according to his or her ability.

Third, the funds having been raised, to conserve and expend them judiciously and carefully, but meeting in full, the patriotic duty of the community.

Determining the Amount.

Fixing the amount of money to be raised may be a difficult matter. It rarely will be a vitally important detail. If the guarantee of the organization is carried out that no other solicitation for money for a period of 12 months is to be permitted, it is obvious that the goal must be large enough.

An exhaustive statistical study of this problem is necessary, and should be undertaken by a specially named subcommittee of the executive committee. This detail is, perhaps, the most important of the entire program. In one city, where the War Chest idea was operated successfully, the executive committee constructed a scale of giving in proportion to income of prospective subscribers, and allotted to each of the nine money-raising subdivisions of the Community War Service organization a money quota as its goal. This scale of giving was adopted. For all corporations, 5 per cent of the previous year's income; for all individuals earning less than $2,000 per year, one day's pay each month. Since there are but 25 working days, on an average, in a month, the scale was 4 per cent of the income of less than $2,000 a year.

This same city adopted the following table showing the percentage of income suggested to contributors with incomes of more than $2,000:

$2,000 to $3,000—one day's pay in 20, or 5 per cent.
$3,000 to $5,000—one day's pay in 17, or 6 per cent.
$5,000 to $10,000—one day's pay in 14, or 7 per cent.
$10,000 to $15,000—one day's pay in 12, or 8 per cent.
$15,000 to $20,000—one day's pay in 11, or 9 per cent.
$20,000 to $25,000—one day's pay in 10, or 10 per cent.
$25,000 to $30,000—one day's pay in 9, or 11 per cent.
$30,000 to $35,000—one day's pay in 8, or 12 per cent.
$35,000 to $40,000—13 per cent.
$40,000 to $45,000—14 per cent.
$45,000 to $50,000—15 per cent.

Other communities have not followed this scale. Some have called upon their citizens to donate to a common fund the sum representing one-half hour's work each week. Others have based the campaign on so much of an arbitrary assessment against the personal or property wealth of the individual as may be determined from the local tax duplicates.

SOMETIMES NEED ISOLATION

Best of Human Qualities Frequently Come to the Front Under Such Circumstances.

Many great human qualities come to their best in a life of comparative isolation. A big tree, an oak or so, standing out in an open field has a toughness of fiber, a spread of boughs and roundness of shape that are never seen in a tree that stands in the woods. So people get individually by being much alone. They become self-reliant, more relying on themselves. They gain clear opinions by thinking things over, and thinking them out to their necessary conclusion. They acquire inflexibility of purpose by facing obstacles and conquering them. The pioneers of our country and the fathers of the republic were such men. The protectors of great undertakings carried through triumphantly have acquired their power in this way. The country is the natural nursery of such qualities. People are wanted on the farms to raise corn and grow stock for the markets; but they are waited there far more for the training of manhood and womanhood in moral worth, in religious sensibility, in all the traits of a strong, upright personality. In the future as never heretofore, our cities, with their multiplying wealth and lavish luxury, are likely to need the country for that steady renewal of their better life which shall keep them from relaxing into sensuality and sinking into decay.

ROUSE CITY FROM LETHARGY

War Chest Campaign Stunts That Keep the People of the Community Talking of It.

To awaken any city from its war lethargy is the problem confronting any organization that undertakes to raise a War Chest. It is highly important that the community simply talk, breathe, eat and sleep "War Chest."

Rectifying the program carried out by the "stunts" committee of one War Chest organization, it is quoted:

"Our first effort was to get some particular thing that everybody would see and discuss. To do this we secured permission to erect in front of the statehouse building a large wooden sign, 20 by 50 feet. A cartoonist drew for us three side-splitting caricatures of the Kaiser, von Hindenburg and the crown prince. The heads of these figures were painted on metal plates, swung in a socket. The old county fair plan of throwing at the babies was utilized. A thousand cheap balls were secured and the public was offered the opportunity of 'swatting the Kaiser' at three shots for 25 cents. The thing was made more spectacular by an electric contact which, when the head was squarely hit, produced a display and a boiler-plate rumbling which was deafening and could be heard throughout the downtown section.

"The stunts committee also arranged for some daily freak happening for each day of the money raising week that would keep the town talking. For example, on one day they arranged with the police to arrest a prominent business man while he was sitting in a downtown hotel and charge him with conspiracy. On him was found concealed War Chest pamphlets, which the police promptly distributed through the crowd.

"On another day, the committee had driven to the most congested point in the city a very large farm wagon upon which were piled 40 barrels. These were so adjusted that they could be released from the driver's seat by a string. When squarely in the center of traffic, the driver pulled the string and the barrels went in every direction, causing considerable traffic. The

RELIC OF PREHISTORIC AGE

Discovery in Germany Has Aroused Antiquarians in All Parts of the World.

The bones of a monster believed to be 20,000 years old were recently discovered in the garden of a mansion at Pörlitz, near Relling, Germany. This recent find has led to the belief that a skull of curious formation, unearthed twelve years ago, is that of a rhinoceros of the Pleistocene period, and probably about 20,000 years old. Authorities have pronounced the head to be that of a prehistoric monster. When the excavations were made there were also discovered parts of a Roman wall, several human skulls, coins and spears. The rhinoceros skull was found underneath a shed which has been standing for 300 years and the foundations of which consisted of concrete to a considerable depth. It was in the course of removing this concrete and digging some yards below that the discovery was made. As little importance was attached to it, the skull was given to the gardener, who handed it over to his children as a plaything. The lower jaw, teeth and legs of the animal have now been found. The skull itself is about 36 inches in length, and seems to be water worn. The leg bones are short and thick and this goes to support the theory that the animal was a rhinoceros.

staff whispered:

"Challenged, you see, by prosecution and defense alike. I tell you what it is, nobody ever wants a curly-headed man on a jury."

"Lawyers tell me that they don't like curly-headed jurors because such fellows are always conceited and stubborn and are apt to cause jurors to disagree."

"Why are curly-headed men conceited and stubborn? Well, the lawyers say they're spoiled in childhood. Curly hair being regarded as a sign of beauty, they are petted and favored by their mothers, outrageously. Then, when they grow up the girls pet and favor them. The path of a curly head is strewn with roses—roses scattered as you might say, by the white hands of the ladies."

"The result is that curly-headed men think they know it all. They are as vain as peacocks and as obstinate as mules. Therefore, they can't get on a jury at any price."

Mongolian Mutton, Eastern. According to a recent traveler in Mongolia, the inhabitants of that country are great meat eaters, living in some cases entirely on mutton. In comparing the foods, the native will ask if they are as good as mutton. It is not uncommon for a Mongol to consume ten pounds of meat at one sitting. He pours mutton fat in his tea, which is prepared with milk from brick tea (the poorest grade pressed in bricks), and of this he drinks enormous quantities; 30 cups a day is not an uncommon amount for an adult. There are no regular hours for eating; the native eats when opportunity occurs.

By RUTH BELMORE ENDICOTT

Perhaps even Chetwood's summer would have been quenched had he but known the thoughts in the heart of the merchant's maid. Mr. Stagg sat in his back office, poring over the letter written by his brother-in-law's lawyer friend, a part of which read:

From the above record of this you will plainly see, being a man of business yourself, that Mr. Cameron's financial affairs were in a most wretched condition when he was away from home. I will do this immediately, looking up the Sumner Building and Loan Association. It is more than sufficient that the papers of the late business man, Mr. Cameron, be put into it from the time that he died, as well as have been dropped into the same.

You know he had only his money on the morning of his death. They were rather about to him, when they met his health, breaking down, to offer him the chance of going to the Mother country, to correspond. He was to furnish articles on the "Drama of a World War," stories of the powerful sections of Europe which have been the scene of the human wrecks from the war.

He rather craved Mr. Cameron's immediate resources for your sister to go with him, and he did so, on the day of his death, and he was to go to the Mother country, to correspond. He was to furnish articles on the "Drama of a World War," stories of the powerful sections of Europe which have been the scene of the human wrecks from the war.

And if somebody had slipped him a crocodile from the Nile Joseph Stagg would have felt more at a loss as to what to do than he felt now regarding the little piece.

"Well, she'll be a nuisance; an awful nuisance," was his final comment, with a nervous sigh.

Thus far, Aunt Rose Kennedy's attitude towards the little stranger had been the single pleasant disappointment. Mr. Stagg had experienced. Joseph Stagg had never been so comfortable in his life as since Mrs. Kennedy had taken up the management of his home. But he stood in great awe of her.

He put the lawyer's letter in the safe. For once he was unable to respond to a written communication promptly. Although he wore that head of curls on his arm he could not actually realize the fact that his sister Hannah was dead.

Any time these fifteen years he might have run down to New York to see her. First she had worked in the newspaper office as a stenographer. Then she had married John Dewey Cameron and they had gone immediately to housekeeping.

Cameron was a busy man; he held a "back job" on the paper. Vacation had been hard to get. And before long Hannah had written about her baby—"Hannah's Carolyn."

After the little one's arrival there seemed less chance than before for the city family to get up to Sunbury Cove. But at any time he might have gone to them. If Joseph Stagg had shut his door for a week and gone to New York, it would not have brought the world to an end.

Now was it because he was stingy that he had not done this. No, he was a miser. But he was fairly hoarded in his business. And there was no "back up" in that dim little office in the back of the hardware store.

On this evening he closed the store, turned on the lights and set out for the dinner table. To tell the truth, he was rather nervous about the new arrival. The appearance of having a child in the house disturbed his usual calm. The kitchen only was lighted when he approached; therefore he was reassured. He knew Hannah's Carolyn must have been put to bed long since. It was dark under the trees and only long familiarity with the walk enabled him to reach the back porch noiselessly. Then it was that something scrambled up in the dark and the roar of a dog's barking made Joseph Stagg leap back in fright. "That that mongrel!" he ejaculated, remembering Prince.

The kitchen door opened, revealing Aunt Rose's ample figure. Prince whined sheepishly and dropped his abbreviated tail, going to lie down again at the extreme end of his leash and blinking his eyes at Mr. Stagg.

"The critter's as savage as a bear!" growled the hardware merchant.

"He is a good watchdog; you must allow that, Joseph Stagg," Aunt Rose said calmly.

The hardware dealer gasped again. It would be hard to say which had startled him the most—the dog or Aunt Rose's manner.

CHAPTER IV.

Aunt Rose Unbowed. There never was a lovelier place for a little girl to say nothing of a dog—to play in than the yard about the Stagg homestead; and this Carolyn May confided to Aunt Rose one forenoon after her arrival at The Corners.

Behind the house the yard sloped down to a broad, calmly flowing brook. Here the goose and duck pens were fenced off, for Aunt Rose would not allow the web-footed fowl to wander at large, as did the other poultry. It was difficult for Prince to learn that some of these feathered folk were to be tolerated.

There was a wide-branched oak tree on a knoll overlooking the brook. Around its trunk Uncle Joe had built a seat. Carolyn May found this a grand place to sit and dream, while Prince lay at her feet.

When they saw Aunt Rose in her customary going toward the fenced-in garden they both jumped up and bounded down the slope after her. It was just here at the corner of the garden fence that Carolyn May had her first adventure.

Prince, of course, disturbed the security of the poultry. The hens went skimming one way, the geese fowl lifted up their voices in angry chatter, the turkey hens scurried to cover, but the turkey cock, General Bolivar, a big, white Holland fowl, was not to be thus easily disturbed and he courageously, supported by any four-footed creature with waggish ears and the stump of a tail.

Therefore General Bolivar charged with outspread wings and quivering feathers, looking like a warrior.

With one hand clutching her frock over her head, Carolyn May's big blue eyes overflowed.

"It's just as if he was arrested," she said. "Poor Prince! Has he got to stay there always, Aunt Rose?"

"He'll stay till he learns his lesson," said Mrs. Kennedy grimly, and went on into the garden.

Carolyn May sat down close to the side of the cage, thrust one hand between the slats and held one of the dog's front paws. She had hoped to go into the garden to help Aunt Rose pick peas, but she could not bear to leave Prince alone.

By and by Mrs. Kennedy came up from the garden, her pan beaped with peas. She looked neither in the direction of the prisoner nor at his little mistress.

Prince whined and lay down. He had begun to realize now that this was no play at all, but punishment. He blinked his eyes at Carolyn May and looked as sorry as ever a dog with crooked ears and an abbreviated tail could look.

The peas and potatoes were cooking for dinner when Aunt Rose appeared again. There was the little girl, all of a dewy sleep, lying on the grass by the prison pen. Aunt Rose would have released Prince, but though he wagged his stump of a tail at her and yawned and blinked, she had still her doubts regarding a mongrel's good nature.

She could not allow the child to sleep there, however; so, stooping, picked up Carolyn May, and carried her comfortably into the house, laying her down on the sitting-room couch to have her nap out—as she supposed, without awakening her.

Aunt Rose came away softly and closed the door and while she finished getting dinner she tried to make no noise which would awaken the child. Mr. Stagg came home at noon, quite as full of business as usual. To tell the truth, Mr. Stagg always felt thankful in Aunt Rose's presence; and he tried to hide his affliction by conversation. So he talked steadily throughout the meal.

But somewhere about the picnic, it was—she stopped and looked (National Crop Improvement Service.) SINCE PIGS are now commonly fattened for market before maturity, they are growing rapidly as well as storing fat in their bodies. Consequently, their rations should supply ample protein and mineral matter for growth. Corn alone does not produce best results, but should be supplemented by concentrates placed before the hogs at all times in a self-feeder. A pig fed in this way should grow from a pound to a pound and six ounces in a day.

Professor Evard of Iowa states that pigs allowed free access to supplements such as tankage, linseed meal and wheat middlings, etc., show a remarkable ability to balance their own ration. Whole corn alone, however, is wasteful.

It is our patriotic duty to utilize as much as possible of the human food in whole grains and to so combine the by-products that hogs will fare better than if fed whole grain.

Though pigs require less salt than other farm animals, they should be supplied with it regularly in a trough or small self-feeder. Pigs crave charcoal, ashes, mortar, soft coal and many other "crunchible" substances and a mixture of charcoal and mineral salts should be furnished at all times.

The improvement in commercial mixed feeds has been marked and repeated tests now show that hog raisers who are not able to raise enough feed for their swine are able to make good profits by feeding by-products.

It is a good business proposition to feed a hog so that he will mature quickly. There is no profit in hogs which do not mature in less than the average time.

away fast enough.

"Your dog, child, does not know his manners. If he is going to stay here with you he must learn that fowl are not to be chased nor startled."

"Oh, Aunt Rose!" begged the little girl, "don't punish Prince! Not that way. Please don't! Why, he's never been spanked in his life! He wouldn't know what it meant. Dear Aunt Rose—"

"I shall not beat him, Carolyn May," interrupted Aunt Rose. "But he must learn his lesson. He must learn that liberty is not license. Bring him here, Carolyn May."

She led the way to an open coop of laths in the middle of the back yard. This was a hutch in which she put broody hens when she wished to break up their desire to set. She opened the gate of it and motioned Prince to enter.

The dog looked pleadingly at his little mistress's face, then into the woman's stern countenance. Seeing no reprieve in either, with drooping tail he sank into the cage.

With one hand clutching her frock over her head, Carolyn May's big blue eyes overflowed.

"It's just as if he was arrested," she said. "Poor Prince! Has he got to stay there always, Aunt Rose?"

"He'll stay till he learns his lesson," said Mrs. Kennedy grimly, and went on into the garden.

So he talked steadily throughout the meal.

But somewhere about the picnic, it was—she stopped and looked around curiously.

"Bless me!" he exclaimed, "where's Hannah's Carolyn?"

"Taking a nap," said Aunt Rose composedly.

"Hum! Can't the child get up to her victuals?" demanded Mr. Stagg. "You begin serving that young one separately and you'll make yourself woe, Aunt Rose."

"Never trouble about that which doesn't concern you, Joseph Stagg," responded his housekeeper rather tartly. "The Lord has placed the care of Hannah's Carolyn on you and me and I'll do my share and do it proper."

Mr. Stagg shook his head and lost interest in his wedge of berry pie. "There are institutions—" he began weakly; but Aunt Rose said quickly: "Joseph Stagg! I know you for what you are—other people don't. If the neighbors heard you say that they'd think you were a heathen. Your own sister's child!"

"Now, you send Tim, the hackman, up after me this afternoon. I've got to go shopping. The child hasn't a thing to wear but that fancy little black frock, and she'll ruin that playing around. She's got to have frocks and shoes and another hat—all sorts of things. Seems a shame to dress a child like her in black—it's punishment. Makes her affliction double, I do say."

"Well, I suppose we've got to flatter Custom or Custom will weep," growled Mr. Stagg. "But where the money's coming from—"

"Didn't Carolyn's father leave her money?" asked Aunt Rose promptly.

"Well—not what you'd call a fortune," admitted Mr. Stagg, slowly. "Thanks be to you've got plenty, then. And if you haven't I have," said the woman in a tone that quite closed the question of finances.

"Which shows me just where I got off at," muttered Joseph Stagg as he started down the walk for the store. "I knew that young one would be a nuisance."

Carolyn May, who was quite used to taking a nap on the days that she did not go to school, woke up, as bright as a newly minted dollar, very soon after her Uncle Joe left for the store. "I'm awfully sorry I missed him," she confided to Aunt Rose when she dashed into the kitchen. "You see, I want to get acquainted with Uncle Joe just as fast as possible. And he's at home so little I guess that it's going to be hard to do it."

"Oh, is that so? And is it going to be hard to get acquainted with me?" asked the housekeeper curiously.

"Oh, no!" cried Carolyn May, snuggling up to the good woman and patting her plump bare arm. "Why, I'm getting acquainted with you fast, Aunt Rose! You heard me say my prayers and when you laid me down on the couch just now you kissed me."

Aunt Rose actually blushed. "There, there, child!" she exclaimed. "You're too nothing. But your dinner, that I've saved warm for you."

"Isn't Prince to have any dinner, Aunt Rose?" asked the little girl.

Keeping Up With The Times In Electricity

Electricity has done more to relieve the burden of the housewife than any commodity in history. It has been applied to instruments of precision, perfected to relieve the faithful woman of the home of her drudgery and as woman acquires the implements to which electricity is to be applied for motive power she considers the merits of each. The common sense woman gives first consideration to the home electrical supply centers; is given courteous reception and leaves well satisfied. Her experience with what she purchased at home is a pleasant and happy one.

On the other hand is the woman who is inveigled by the catalogue house into purchasing something which she has never examined, disappointment follows and her experience is both sad and expensive.
